

Please Join Top Notch of Indiana for the Second Annual Labor Management Partnership Dinner

Featuring: Mark Breslin, Labor Management Trainer and Strategist

Thursday, October 15, 2009

Back by popular demand, Top Notch is pleased to announce that Mark Breslin will once again be the keynote speaker for the second annual Labor Management Partnership Dinner. Mark Breslin of Breslin Strategies will build on last year's topic of maintaining market share while focusing on a more specific presentation of productivity.

How are we maintaining our productivity in this economic climate?

Speaking to more than 50,000 contractors, end-users, labor leaders, rank and file members and apprentices each year, Breslin's mission is to significantly increase the value of union construction for contractors, unions, end-users and craftsmen in North America.

Ideal both for upper level management and tradesmen alike, we encourage contractors to consider sending individuals from each level of their organization to this event. The dinner should be viewed as an internal educational opportunity, and will feature an honest evaluation of our strengths and weaknesses. It should not be viewed as a client development event for contractors to entertain users.

Top Notch is very proud to sponsor Breslin's presentation on behalf of our members. While we are asking attendees to purchase tables at a less than industry average, Top Notch is underwriting the cost of Breslin's presentation for the benefit of organizations of all sizes. We encourage you to take advantage of this opportunity to network with other leaders from labor and management in the union construction industry. This is a key industry discussion that should not be missed!
