PRESS RELEASE

For release: November 30, 2009

2009 ICA Safety Program Award Winners Announced

(INDIANAPOLIS) -- Evansville, Indiana-based Gribbins Insulation Company, Inc. received ICA's highest safety award (Pinnacle Safety Award), announced on Thursday November 19th at the 2009 Indiana Construction Association Membership Meeting before a packed audience of over 200 at the Wyndham Indianapolis West.

Organized by the ICA Safety Steering Committee, the program attracted thirty-four entries from around the state, competing in seven categories based on contractor size and the type of construction they perform. The overall winner was chosen from the seven category winners.

ICA Director of Contractor Relations George Sheraw said, "Gribbins Insulation Company was clearly ranked best overall by the judges. The judges commented that they were impressed by the consistent responses received from the confidential worker and supervisor surveys that were completed by the Gribbins Insulation Company employees. One of the judges stated - 'It's clear that at Gribbins Insulation, they talk safety all day, every day. From top to bottom they are all committed to safety.' In addition, workers gave the company high marks for their emphasis on working safely. What also made this company stand out was its commitment to not only follow their own safety policies, but to exceed them. Gribbins Insulation recognizes that investing in employee safety offers broad business advantages and, in this case, an opportunity to show leadership in the construction industry."

The company also received an award in the category of Building Subcontractor under 300,000 Indiana onsite man-hours.
